Sincere Thanks

I would like to offer my sincerest thanks to the hundreds of young European Nationalists who commemorated the anniversary of the murder of Rudolf Hess. German police imposed the most draconian conditions to prevent marches and rallies, with mass arrests reminiscent of the old regime in East Germany. Despite this undemocratic behaviour, several small rallies were held in Germany, and comrades in Scandinavia also did their bit. Thankfully, this activity was more than enough to distract the police forces of "democracy" from discovering two small gatherings of members of the older generation, held simultaneously in two separate European countries. In a unique "first" the older generation made use of modern technology and the gatherings were "linked" via a Video conferencing facility.

My thanks also to my German hosts who took me to view the new Leni Riefenstahl photographic exhibition in Hamburg. It was truly an experience of a lifetime. Thank You.

Boycott Israel

Activists in Zionist occupied Palestine have announced an embargo on Israeli produce and goods. The occupied west Bank and Gaza import five million pounds worth of Israeli produce every day and the embargo will cause real hardship to Palestinian families. We appeal to all Nationalists to follow this embargo with a complete boycott of Israeli goods, produce and services as well as those products and services offered by British Zionists.

Ironic

We were appalled to learn of the cowardly attack on BNP leader, John Tyndal and his wife, Valerie, recently

The attackers, thugs from the anti-racism movement, will no doubt walk free as the Establishment give covert approval to the tactics of harassment and violence directed at Nationalists.

But, when the cowardly attack was happening, where was the BNP leader's security? And isn't it ironic that just a short while ago the BNP leadership was persuaded to expel several tough young men who had previously undertaken security duties.

Even more ironic, if true, is the suggestion that some of those who agitated for the expulsion of the security team were seen scurrying away from this incident!

OBITUARY

Commander Andrew Fountaine. RN (Ret)

7.12.18 to 14.9.97

It was with great sadness that we heard of the recent death of Commander Andrew Fountaine. R.N. (Ret).

Andrew was both a colourful character and a dedicated patriot. The son of a vice-Admiral in the Royal Navy, he carried on the family's Naval tradition and on leaving school joined the peacetime Navy in 1935, only to be invalidated out after just a few months suffering from rheumatic fever.

As a 20 year-old, he saw the danger of Communism to Europe and firmly pinning his colours to the Fascist mast he volunteered to fight with the Fascists in the Spanish Civil War.

After this adventure, Andrew again sought to join the Royal Navy and got a friend to successfully impersonate him at the Navy medical examination.

After receiving wounds when his destroyer was attacked by the Japanese, Andrew was retired from the Navy with the rank of Commander.

This was followed by a colourful political career, firstly as a Conservative and later in the National Front where he served on the directorate.

In 1980, disillusioned by internal conflict Andrew withdrew from politics and retired to his extensive estate, Narford Hall, in Norfolk.

Andrew Fountaine continued to maintain an interest in the Nationalist political scene, but vowed never again to become active. However, it is believed that in the last 18 months or so, Andrew had accepted an executive position with the Searchlight Victims Support Group.

Andrew, who leaves a widow and three children, will be sadly missed by all those who had the privilege to know him.

The Questions That MUST Be Answered

Much has been written about the tragic case of the Black teenager, Stephen Lawrence, who was murdered in a knife attack in South London in 1993. As the alleged murderers were White the case was classified as a "racial incident" and became a cause celebre for the many Black political organisations that crawled out of the woodwork.

The local churches organised a peaceful protest march and extreme-left groups who had jumped on the "Lawrence band-waggon" organised a riot.

With the entry into the case of several "media-friendly" and knowledgeable lawyers a complaint against the police was soon made. The basis of the complaint was that the local police did not act quick enough in investigating the case because the victim was Black. Some sections of the Black community went so far as to suggest that the police did not respond with a great deal of enthusiasm because they thought that both the victim and his probable assailants were both involved in a minor battle for the local franchise for dealing drugs. Other people have suggested that the police viewed Lawrence as a Black thug who "got what was coming to him".

We at League Sentinel are in no position to judge the correctness of any of the above suppositions but a confidential source has given information to us which leads us to ask these questions ...

IS IT TRUE THAT STEPHEN LAWRENCE WAS QUESTIONED AS A SUSPECT BY LOCAL POLICE FOR INVOLVEMENT IN THE STABBING OF A WHITE YOUTH IN AN INCIDENT SOME WEEKS PRIOR TO HIS DEATH?

Since Lawrence's death there has been a carefully managed campaign of media manipulation by certain sections of the Black community in which Stephen Lawrence has been "marketed" as some type of Black icon.

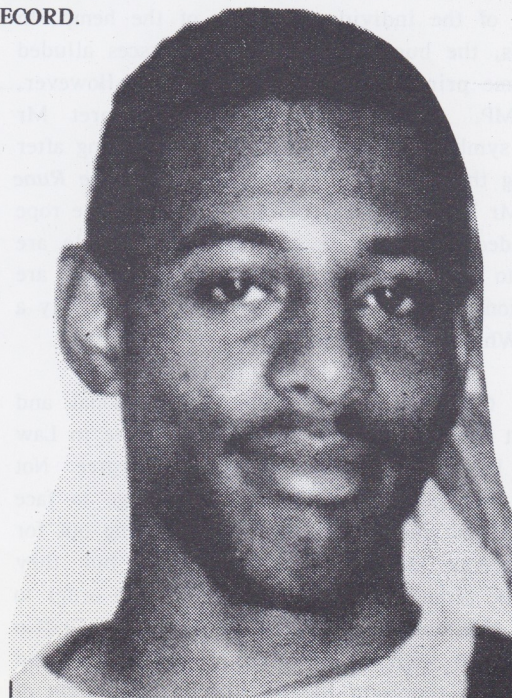

A talented, well educated, well behaved, polite teenager that all Black youth should hold up as a shining example, is their presentation of the murder victim and Lawrence may well have possessed all of these attributes but ...

IS IT TRUE THAT WHEN HIS BODY WAS SEARCHED AT THE MORTUARY FOLLOWING HIS DEATH IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT HE WAS CARRYING A KNIFE? ... AND THAT THIS PIECE OF EVIDENCE WAS RULED INADMISSIBLE BY A JUDGE AS NOT BEING RELEVANT?

If the answer to all of these questions is ...yes! Then this still does not justify murder but ...

IN THE INTEREST OF JUSTICE WE BELIEVE THAT THESE QUESTIONS NEED TO BE ANSWERED AND THAT THE ANSWERS BECOME A MATTER OF PUBLIC RECORD.

Stephen Lawrence. Is the WHOLE TRUTH being told?

Nick Griffin and Paul Ballard, both leading activists in the BNP, have been singled out to face the gruelling experience of a political show trial characteristic of an Eastern European totalitarian state. They have been charged under the infamous Race Relations Act for the publication of issue number 12 of The Rune magazine.

The accusation of inciting racial hatred is familiar to all politically active Nationalists as we daily contend with the constant threat of police state harassment instigated by the traditional enemies of free speech. It appears any pretext will do for any trivial complaint to activate the full force of the law and then interpret the mildest expression of racial patriotism as "hatred". Of course, we know that our patriotism has nothing to do with hatred but is rather an expression of our love for our own people ... something which all other races and peoples are encouraged to promote. Mr Griffin's particular issue of The Rune displays a hangman's rope on the front cover, along with the legend, "What has a rope got to do with White Unity?". In the inside cover Mr Griffin explains the symbolism represents unity as opposed to the weakness of the individual strands of the hemp. In the 1930s, the bundle of rods of the Fasces alluded to the same principle of Strength in Union. However, Jewish MP, Alex Carlile chose to interpret Mr Griffin's symbolism as offensive and threatening after requesting the police to forward a copy of The Rune to him. Mr Griffin's persecutors are claiming the rope "is intended to symbolise that all black people are only fit to be hanged", even though black people are not mentioned anywhere in the inside cover ... only a call for White Survival and Unity.

Both Mr Griffin and Mr Ballard are rational and intelligent men, the former with a MA degree in Law and the latter possessing a Geography Degree. Not only do they possess the necessary courage to face this attempt to incarcerate them for speaking out for the indigenous people of these islands but they possess the strength of intellect and will, in order to overcome this threat to all Nationalists. Mr Griffin has dispensed with the services of a barrister and has chosen to represent himself against the weight of the Establishment.

On the surface, the evidence against them appears feeble but the Race Relations Act requires neither proof nor intent for what has been interpreted as "racial hatred". Mr Griffin's defence is to be a political statement from which we can all learn. There will be more patriotic revisionists persecuted in this country of ours for simply stating what is natural and healthy, and so we regard this forthcoming trial with particular significance.

Now dubbed the Carlile Two", Mr Griffin and Mr Ballard (who is employing the services of a barrister) need all our support. Cheques and postal orders should be made payable to "Carlile Two Defence Fund" and posted to: Nick Griffin, c/o PO Box 117, Welling. Kent. DA16 3DW. All donations are acknowledged with a full update on the case.

LONDON

BNP Leader Attacked

British National Party leader, John Tyndal, and his wife, Valerie, were both attacked and badly beaten as they made their way to a BNP meeting in Stratford, East London, recently.

The attackers struck at the Swan pub in Stratford Broadway, which was a surprise choice of venue for the meeting as the barstaff are well-known in the area as being sympathetic to the IRA.

At first it was suspected that the attackers were from the IRA's fan club, Red Action, especially as both Mr and Mrs Tyndal are in their sixties, and RA seem to have a penchant for attacking elderly people.

But now it would seem, responsibility for the attack has been claimed by the SWP's puppet group, the Anti-Nazi League, who had been holding an anti-racism demonstration nearby, along with other tiny left-wing groups including a rare appearance by Searchlight magazine.

After the attack, three men were arrested and later released on police bail until November.

John Tyndall. Victim Of ANL Violence.

A spokesman for Tower Hamlets BNP branch denied they had organised the meeting and further denied any responsibility for the security of the venue. Another BNP source told League Sentinel, "I am really surprised the SWP/ANL would launch such an attack, especially as their own paper-sellers are so vulnerable to retaliation

LEEDS

A leading supporter of the Kick Racism Out of football, pressure group is the former England footballer Carlton Palmer. Unfortunately Palmer, who now plays for Leeds United took the anti-racist group's policy of forming a closer bond between black footballers and white supporters a little too far when he groped an 18 year old girl in a pub.

Palmer was convicted of sexual assault and fined £600 by Leeds magistrates.

In a separate case, Palmer was also convicted of disorderly conduct at a Leeds nightclub in an incident in which a police officer was assaulted.

Palmer shouted abuse at police officers who were patrolling past the Majestyk nightclub in Leeds, and when the officers stopped to caution Palmer about his foul-language, a struggle broke out. Palmer admitted swearing at the officers and calling one of them "a pig". Palmer was fined £450 plus £190 costs.

Leeds Football Club, anxious to maintain their respectable family image, have now transferred Palmer to Southampton FC.

The Secret Life Of Michael Mansfield

The QC at the centre of the judicial enquiry investigating the Stephen Lawrence murder case was exposed in this publication for his role in providing Channel 4 with extracts from the secretly shot police video of a private conversation in the home of one of the acquitted white men. Mansfield is a director of the film company responsible for this act of contempt against a judge's order that the video should be returned to the police after the proceedings of a private prosecution.

The vain and arrogant Mansfield seems to be almost a law unto himself as he postures as the high-profile Leftist silk championing such headline-hitting causes as the Bradford Twelve, the Bridgewater Four and the Birmingham Six. Now his celebrity status is enhanced by representing the family of Stephen Lawrence in their relentless pursuit of five acquitted white men. But why has no one, other than League Sentinel, challenged this man's cynical manipulation of the television media involving his privileged status as a QC and his less talked-about role as a supplier of material for TV documentaries? Documentary evidence of Mansfield's double-dealing was even forwarded to the editor of Private Eye, the organ with a renowned reputation for anti-Establishment iconoclasm. Even they would not touch it for the simple reason that the Lawrence vendetta is such a political hot potato involving all the forces of politically correct liberal agencies in an hysterical atmosphere of racial revenge. The names of the enquiry members into the case headed by Sir William Macpherson of Cluny indicates the political nature of the judicial enquiry ordered by Jack Straw. Apart from the Deputy Chief Constable of West Yorkshire, officiating will be the Rt Rev John Sentamu and Dr Richard Stone, chairman of The Jewish Council For Racial Equality.

Michael Mansfield as the darling of Leftist liberalism is afforded the status of a moral advocate in a cause determining the course of race relations in Britain. In the eyes of these equality commissars, Mansfield must not fail and thus he can flout the orders of judges with impunity because some things are above the law when it comes to certain political interests. His domestic image however, falls very short of his public profile. His association with TV producer, Yvette Vanson, a co-director of Vanson Productions Ltd (as revealed in our last issue), reveals more than a business interest. Mansfield left his first wife, Melian Borders, along with five children in 1992. He met Yvette Vanson in 1995 which interrupted a long-standing partnership with Tony Wardle, then her co-director on Vanson Wardle Productions Ltd. Wardle stepped aside for Mansfield on the board of this company (dropping the Wardle title) when Mansfield married Vanson with whom he has a son. Even though this second marriage is allegedly running smoothly, there have been reports of an extramarital affair which Mansfield claimed caused enormous distress and for which he is "deeply sorry".

Mansfield's pose as a Leftist does not exactly endear him to the more cautious opportunists of New Labour, from which we have legal luminaries such as champagne socialist, John Mortimer, Lord Chancellor, Lord Irvine of Lairg and Cherie Booth QC. In an interview with The Sunday Telegraph, Mansfield claims to avoid organisations claiming they corrupt people. "I suppose, in this respect, I'm an anarchist", he quipped. A more accurate indication of his true political leanings is illustrated by his support for Arthur Scargill's Socialist Labour Party in the last General Election. His chambers raised £1,250 for a candidate standing against the new Home Secretary, Jack Straw, in Blackburn. So we are not dealing with the traditional Establishment sycophantic but a full-blown standard bearer of the Hard Left with a political agenda that any upstart Stalinist would be proud of.

We questioned the ethics of Mansfield's involvement with Vanson Productions Ltd in our last issue. In this issue we reveal the true political leanings of this man with all the implications in a judicial procedure flawed from beginning to end.

Michael Mansfield QC. A Complaint About His Professional Conduct Is Being Investigated

Britain Denies Terrorism Link

Israeli security officials have provoked a diplomatic crisis by accusing Britain of being a safe haven for Palestinian terrorists. British government officials and senior members of MI5 have denied the accusation.

The row was sparked when Ami Ayalon, the head of the Israeli internal security service, Shin Bet, accused Britain of allowing Palestinian refugees living in London to raise funds which Shin Bet claim are then used to finance attacks against Israelis living in the occupied territories.

In an unprecedented move, Ayalon arrived uninvited in London with demands for a meeting with his MI5 counterpart, Sir Stephen Lander. Ayalon also claims that London was the base from where the most recent attack against the Zionist occupiers of Palestine was planned. In that attack, in Jerusalem's Mahane Yehuda market, two Palestinian martyrs detonated explosives strapped to their bodies killing themselves and 16 Israelis. A further 150 Israelis were wounded in the attack.

The action was claimed by Hamas, an Islamic militant group who have been to the forefront of the battle to repel the Zionist occupation of Palestine.

The main focus of Israeli suspicion is directed against the London based Palestinian charity INTERPAL, a registered charity that raises funds to support Palestinian victims of Zionist aggression. Thousands of Palestinian families have been made deliberately homeless by the Israeli authorities and INTERPAL funds provide emergency relief for those in hardship,

A Palestinian source told League Sentinel, "It is true that there are many Palestinian refugees currently seeking shelter in Britain. But these people are genuine refugees fleeing from Israeli harassment. We are guests in your country and wish only to return to a free Palestine". Our source admitted that Palestinian charities did raise money in Britain "but only for Hamas prisoners and their families".

Officials at both the Home Office and the Foreign Office refused to discuss the Israeli allegations openly but one told us "off the record" that reaction to the allegations was "quite hostile. There is a school of thought which thinks the Israelis have a bloody cheek in making these accusations especially when their own external security service Mossad have hundreds of agents active in this country"

 Footnote: In his book, "By Way Of Deception" the former Mossad agent, Victor Ostrivsky, revealed that in 1984 Mossad had 2000 sayanim (part-time agents) active in London alone! A further 5000 were available for backup.

The main functions of these agents was to gather intelligence for the Israelis and maintain illegal arms caches.

Palestinian refugees currently living in London deny raising funds for terrorism and just look forward to the day they can return to a free Palestine.

Extortion And Blackmail

After decades of milking Germany for all its worth, international Jewish agencies have stumbled upon another source of dubious financial claim, using the Holocaust as moral blackmail. Now it is the turn of Switzerland to receive the "war crimes" treatment, even though this land remained neutral throughout the Second European War. The campaign to extort gold and other valuables from Swiss banks began with accusations of collaboration with war-time Germany, a charge easily levelled against most occupied European nations at that time. But Switzerland was not occupied by Germany and had no involvement in events relating to the Holocaust or any other episodes in the great conflict of that war.

The great libel against the Swiss nation was initiated for a base cynical purpose ... to squeeze whatever they could out of unclaimed deposit accounts in what must be one of the biggest scams of the Twentieth Century. Avraham Burg of the Israel-based Jewish Agency began the great bluff in August 1995 with a press release claiming that hundreds of millions of dollars deposited in Swiss banks were the properties of Jews, even though Burg admitted that he and his agency did not have any proof or evidence to back the claim. Indeed, he confessed, "we didn't have a thing, we just kept pressing". The Holocaust myth is enough to force any goose to lay a golden egg but the Swiss were rather more reticent at first, having already instructed their banks in 1992 to identify all assets of victims of war. This government instruction revealed 9.5 million francs, with only a few of the victims being Jewish.

With this moral pressure being placed on the Swiss, many other countries panicked in the great tide of Holocaust hysteria.

First was Norway, then neutral Sweden and then, predictably, Argentina where a Simon Wiesenthal Centre got their sticky fingers on five bank volumes covering gold transactions in the European war. These gold transactions involved only neutral countries ... reviving the Swiss connection.

Not making much headway in their scam, certain Jewish interests resorted to more sinister methods of bringing pressure to bear. New York Jewish lawyers called for a world boycott of Swiss banks in an effort to force the Swiss to hand over vast amounts of money. One firm of Jewish lawyers initiated litigation from New York with thousands of claimants rushing in on a daily basis in what can only be described as a "gold rush".

Most, if not all, of the claims are made on the flimsiest of pretexts with some claiming "stories" from their parents.

The Swiss, being a cautious people, conceded to further investigations but with certain conditions attached. The Swiss knowing the claims to be highly dubious insisted on a five year period of thorough investigation but the various Jewish agencies persisted in giving them the hard sell. Edgar Bronfman, of the World Jewish Congress demanded a "good faith financial gesture", a euphemism for blackmail. Bronfman must have learned this method from his gangster and bootlegging father.

Switzerland. A Country Which Normally Conjures Up Visions Of Cuckoo Clocks And Idyllic Mountain Scenery. But For The Holocaust Professionals It Has become, "A Land Of Milk And Honey"!

Rolling The Swiss

The good faith gesture involved the extortionate sum in the equivalent of over £108 million before any investigation into the thousands of claims pending. This moved former Swiss president, Jean-Pascal Delamuraz, to accuse this international cabal of extortion and blackmail and, further, to suggest that big Jewish businessmen in London and New York were hell-bent on destroying Switzerland as a banking and financial centre.

Avraham Burg responded with the predictable whining that these comments were an insult to "the entire Jewish people" which, of course, is nonsense. This stimulated yet another demand for a world-wide boycott of Swiss banks. The Union Bank and Credit Suisse were to feel the impact when the value of their stocks fell by two per cent. Even Swiss Jews protested against these tactics, invalidating Burg's claim to represent "the entire Jewish people".

Rolf Bloch of the Federation of Swiss Jews made his feelings clear and Bronfman's WJC agreed to call off the boycott and resume "negotiations" with the Swiss president. They now demanded all the money deposited by the National Socialists of Germany after it was discovered that very few Jewish assets actually remained.

A security guard at Switzerland's Union Bank was paid 30,000 US dollars by the Anti-Defamation League in return for some of the bank's papers due for shredding. The stolen papers related to war-time property sales. This theft again stimulated the blackmail threats against the Swiss banks.

The banks began to cave in with a compromise fund proposed for "victims of the Holocaust" at a value of 100 million Swiss francs. The political agenda was set with a humanitarian fund to support "the fight against racism and anti-semitism". Switzerland's ambassador in Washington protested with the Jewish Agency bearing pressure and forcing the ambassador to resign. Jewish agencies were now demanding seven billion US dollars from the Swiss with the threat to freeze Swiss banking assets in the United States.

Are the Protocols of Zion really a forgery?

The Swiss government also caved in, agreeing to establish a Holocaust Aid Fund and the new Swiss president, Arnold Koller, agreeing £3 billion for a fund to support "needy people persecuted by the Nazis" along with "their needy descendants".

From the beginning there never was a moral claim to those unidentified deposits in Swiss banks. As Avraham Burg admitted "We didn't have a thing, we just kept pressing", but Zionist Jewry triumphed through moral blackmail and yet another government submitted to their pressure. We can only assume from the evidence of the events that the entire Holocaust myth has been created and used for one purpose and one purpose alone: that purpose is to use the weapon of moral blackmail in order to extort the wealth of a nation and, in the process, destroy the moral fabric of that nation. The treatment of the Swiss stands as a lesson for all Europeans.

Israel

The unsolved mystery of the disappearance of thousands of Yemeni Jewish young children in 1949 has threatened to cause severe embarrassment to the Israeli government as Yemenis claim their children were sold to childless, wealthy Jews in Europe and the USA.

Fifty thousand Yemeni Jews arrived in Israel as immigrants in 1949. Thousands of families claimed that their new-born babies were taken from them by hospital workers who claimed that the natural mothers were too weak to sustain the infants. Most were never seen again and the distraught parents were told that their children had died.

The parents were also told that their children had been properly buried and fresh graves were shown as proof.

Over the last 40 years the suspicious Yemenis had been trying to get graves opened but their requests had been blocked by the Israeli Labour party section of the coalition government. Labour had been in power during the period when the child abduction had taken place.

Finally, in August the Yemini's obtained permission to open four graves of Yemini children. In a televised exhumation, the graves were found to be empty!

The Israeli authorities have now promised an enquiry.

United States

Dr William Pierce, founder of the US based, National Alliance, has been served with a writ by the family of a Black man shot to death by a deranged White Vietnam veteran in 1986.

The family of the victim claim that the murderer was motivated to kill after reading a copy of The Turner Diaries and listening to the American Dissident Voices radio show, both of which are produced by Dr Pierce.

As the case is unlikely to be successful, it is felt that the sole motivation behind issuing the writ is to force Dr Pierce to mount a very expensive defence. Possibly driving him into bankruptcy.

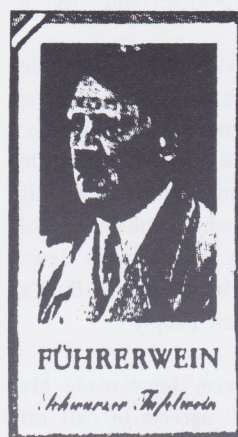

Donations towards Dr Pierce's defence fund can be sent to: The NA. PO Box 90, Hillsboro. West Virginia. WV 24946. USA.

Italy

A family owned Italian wine company has refused to bow to Zionist pressure and remove a new brand of wine from the market.

The wine, Fuhrerwein, comes in two types. SIEG HEIL, and EIN VOLK, EIN REICH, EIN FUHRER. Both wines have a picture of Adolf Hitler on the label.

Wine producer, Andrea Lunardelli, has already defended the wine in a court case following a complaint from Jewish organisations. Mr Lunardelli, from Udine, in Northern Italy has now introduced another addition to his historical range entitled, Mussolini wine.

Flanders

Members of the Flemish nationalist party, VLAAMS BLOK, are concerned there could be a deliberate policy by the Belgian Establishment of giving covert approval to attacks on VB members by left-wing extremists.

In the latest incident, Francis Van Der Eynde, a VB member of parliament, was attacked at his home and badly beaten by unknown attackers. The attack, which took place in front of Mr Van Der Eynde's wife and children, was of such ferocity that he needed hospital treatment.

This is the second serious attack on the VLAAMS BLOK in Ghent recently, and the VB's suspicions of a conspiracy seem to well founded especially in view of a concerted news blackout about the attacks.

The Belgian police, who have been seriously discredited by their incompetence in investigating recent paedophile scandals, have continued their incompetence in investigating these political attacks.

Cynics in Flanders believe apart from police incompetence, there is a secret agenda to encourage attacks on nationalists. Our Flemish correspondent commented "attacks on opposition politicians or ethnic minorities guarantee full media coverage and swift action by the police. But attacks on nationalists are being deliberately ignored".

Canada

Zundel Parcel Bomb Suspects Identified

Vancouver. BC.

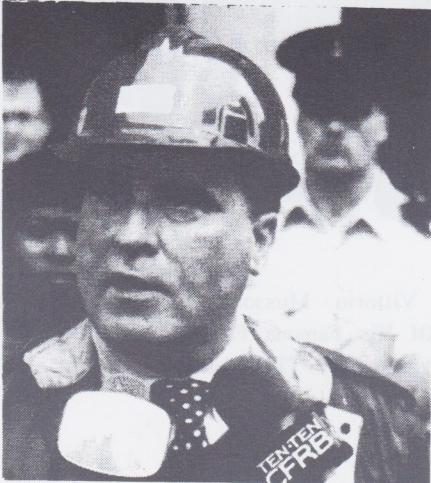

Canadian police have raided the houses of two men suspected of sending four parcel bombs to political opponents, including one to revisionist, Ernst Zundel, in May last year. Mr Zundel attracted a great deal of hostile media attention when he challenged the authorised version of the Holocaust.

The Canadian police (RCMP) were able to obtain search warrants for the premises of Darren Thurston and David Barbarash after providing the court with evidence obtained via 9000 telephone conversations between the men were intercepted. Other evidence including covert video surveillance tapes of the suspects were also presented.

The Search Warrants, which ran to over 60 pages, enabled police officers to raid both the suspects homes and a storeroom rented by the men in Wall Street, Vancouver. It from this location that a number of computer hard discs were seized along with potential bomb making components and extreme-left propaganda.

The raid on the home of Thursdon led to the police taking away several weapons including an AK-47 assault rifle and a 9mm pistol.

Both weapons were loaded.

Ernst Zundel. Parcel Bomb Victim.

Correspondence between the suspects and the German terrorist group, the Red Army Faction, was also discovered.

A somewhat sinister link with Britain was also established with the discovery of blank NATIONAL UNION OF STUDENTS (NUS) membership cards appertaining to several British universities.

The two suspects, Thurston and Barbarash, are well known to the RCMP, both having criminal records for arson, as well as firearms and explosive offences. They have also been linked to some of Canada's most extreme anti-Fascist groups.

Despite the vast amounts of good quality evidence obtained by the police, neither of the men have yet been taken into custody! The Canadian section of the Jewish Defence League have promised to fund a defence campaign, if the suspects are eventually arrested and charged.

To circumvent any attempt by the Canadian authorities and media to impose an information "blackout" on this case, Mr Zundel has established a website on the Internet and will publish all available information to the world.

The website address is (<http://www.webcom.com/ezundel/index.html>).

OBITUARY

LOYAL TO THE END:

Vittorio Mussolini

Vittorio (Vito) Mussolini was the eldest son of the leader and founder of Italian Fascism. His death in the summer of this year was a tragic loss to the cause of "post-Fascism" for Vito never waived from his loyalty to his father, in both his life and death.

Being the intellectual of the family, his career extended far beyond his inevitable political associations with his father's cause. His interest in Italian cinema brought him together with such talented men as Goffredo Alessandrini and Roberto Rossellini with whom he co-scripted some of the best Italian films. As the director of a film company, he gave unqualified support to one of the greatest of Italian directors, Vittorio de Sica, with de Sica's first film in 1939 (Rose Scarlatte).

But Vito Mussolini was also the personification of the eternal Fascist ideal, the man of thought and the man of action. In both the Abyssinian campaign and the anti-communist struggle in the Spanish Civil War, he flew on many dangerous missions for the Italian Air Force. On terra firma, he excelled as a racing driver, that most Italian of sports, taking part in the famous Mille Miglia, (thousand mile) race. Living life to the full, exercising all the faculties, that is the stamp of what Oswald Spengler meant by "Caeserism", the higher type to which Vito undoubtedly subscribed and to which authentic Fascism owes its dynamism.

One of his greatest contributions to Italian cultural life in the 1930s was manifested in his editorship of the magazine, Cinema, which even redeems him in the eyes of opponents of Fascism. Contrary to the flawed anti-Fascist view that the Italian cause was repressive and intolerant of opposition, Vito freely gave space to a wide spectrum of both political and cultural opinion in the magazine, earning him a respect that endures today.

Towards the end of the Second European War, he served the European cause at Hitler's HQ in Rastenburg setting up a propaganda station, encouraging Italians to resist the Allied advance. It was from Rastenburg that he was to greet his father after the gallant Otto Skorzeny's rescue mission. He returned to Italy in 1959 after a period in South America. Up until his death, Vito never relinquished the struggle with a series of books revealing the true face of Italian Fascism and of his extraordinary father in particular.

LOOKBACK ON HISTORY

MOSLEY IN SCOTLAND

While much has been written about Sir Oswald Mosley, his "New Party" and the "British Union of Fascists", most of the writings have focused on events in England. Mosley's campaigns and support North of the border, and the part played by Scotland in the shaping of his outlook, has often been overlooked.

When Mosley launched his "New Party", the precursor of the "British Union of Fascists", it was active in Scotland virtually from the outset. A series of public meetings were held in Glasgow and even in 1931 the red rabble showed the same commitment to "free speech" as their present day counterparts. Rather than try to engage Mosley in rational debate they set out instead to smash up his meetings. What they did not reckon on was Mosley's charisma and fearless courage; as this report from the Daily Record illustrates... "For five minutes yesterday I thought that Shettleston would be Sir Oswald Mosley's burial place. Shettleston town hall, Glasgow, was packed. The voice of the people was loud and angry. Bring us Mosley they chanted, and when the leader of the New Party arrived they swarmed around him breathing into his face the promise... We'll hang Mosley by the neck in the Gallowgate."

The most articulate of the acrimonious jumped up on Mosley's platform and threw out the challenge... "There's fifty polis (police) hidden here... What chance do we have against them?" "Fifty polis", repeated a woman in the front row as her friend cried "Traitor" at Sir Oswald. Then someone settled the issue. "Send away your polis. Come outside and see what'll happen". Even to my innocent ears this did not seem the most pleasing invitation.

But Britain's all round champion smiled. "I never asked for police protection," he declared. "I never asked for police protection in my life."

Quite definitely there were fifty "polis" who nobody wanted so Mosley went outside and sat on a chair while the proletariat surged towards him. "Hey Oswald" they cried "Is it true you pay super-tax? Hey Oswald, ye dirty dog!"

Mosley dealt with all the questions his hostile audience threw at him and slowly the mood of the crowd turned. "Aye that's right, speak up Oswald. You're gemme (game) anyway, we'll say that for you". That finished any prospect of bloodshed. A hundred voices chanted "Hey Oswald" and then they swept him forward to his car.

Sir Oswald left Shettleston smiling. Behind him, men who had sworn deep oaths to let Mosley see what Glasgow thought of him stood speechless and amazed. What had happened? Why did they let him go?

Support for Mosley came from all sections of Scottish society. In the same month as the Shettleston town hall meeting he was nominated for the rectorship of Glasgow university. Although Mosley failed to win the contest his candidature was supported by the well known writer George Bernard Shaw. Indeed, Shaw's view of the contest shows that even in the 1930s, Glasgow university was inhabited by the same kind of creatures which prowl its corridors in the present day. He wrote, "They only show that our seats of learning and culture are the only places where representatives of learning and culture are invariably at the bottom of the poll, and the vulgarist available party careerist at the top".

The red scum were not prepared to allow Mosley's popularity to continue to spread in the face of their campaign of lies and hatred. A new way of stopping Mosley in Scotland was needed and this they hoped could be achieved by recruiting among the Jewish dominated razor gangs of Glasgow's Gorbals for allies in a new anti Mosley alliance.

After a giant open air rally on Glasgow Green (the Times newspaper estimated the crowd at 40,000), Mosley and his leading officers were attacked by a 500 strong gang of razor wielding communists who went on to fight pitched battles with the police.

It was this event more than any other which was to precipitate the major change in Mosley's political life.

On his return to London the New Party executive was hurriedly summoned. Mosley was brief, "We need no longer hesitate to create our trained and disciplined force. From today we are Fascist".

Jurgen Kuczinski: Portrait Of A Cosmopolitan

In August this year, Professor Jurgen Kuczinski cashed in his chips and departed this mortal coil. Who was Kuczinski and why should we be interested in someone so relatively obscure? Well, our subject was an almost perfect caricature of that Twentieth Century phenomenon, the bourgeois Jew who could easily embrace the practices of roulette capitalism to his own personal advantage whilst paying lip-service to Marxism. Contradictory? Yes, of course ... but then such a paradox has never presented a problem to the conscience of an out and out materialist.

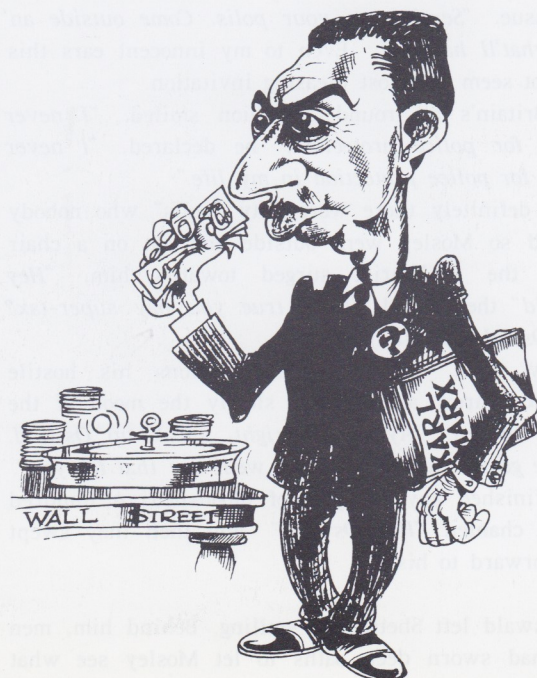

It is in the nature of the cosmopolitan to wander and flit from one source of gain to another regardless of local loyalty. In Kuczinski's case, his opportunistic meanderings covered a career embracing hypocrisy and treason, typifying his kind. He was born in 1904, the scion of well-to-do Jewish parents, described in one obituary as "cosmopolitan communist". He was given all of the advantages of the Jewish social and cultural world flourishing in Germany at that time. After graduating from the Heidelberg and Erlangen universities he published his first book, Back to Marx, a typically turgid rehash of the economic determinism that predicted the "unavoidable" triumph of socialism, moving him in later life to muse that "the timetable appears to have altered somewhat", after the collapse of the Soviet Union.

Kuczinski's moral juggling act was to begin very shortly after the publication of his first book when he travelled to the United States to work for the American Federation of Labor (sic). this was also the beginning of a life-long ability to straddle apparently two opposing worlds. Whilst promoting communism in the American trades unions, he discovered a flair for playing the stock market on Wall Street to his considerable advantage. He would return to the world of roulette capitalism several times in his life and at the same time promote himself as the dyed in the wool communist historian par excellence. His flirtations with Wall Street capitalism did not prevent him from returning to Germany to edit the Rote Fahne, the organ of the German Communist Party (KPD). This episode of communist activity was curtailed when he fled Germany in 1936, no doubt with some encouragement from the National Socialists. The next episode in his life is almost classic for the type he personified, fitting in so perfectly to a stereotype which some have claimed could only be the invention of a "Peter Simple". Yes, he moved to Hampstead, no joke, where he set up a branch of the Frei Deutsche Jugend, the youth wing of the German communists. There has always been a Communist-Jewish milieu in North London whose penchant has always been for things treasonable ... and it was in this community that Kuczinski prospered, sending the odd funds to the KDP. There were the inevitable

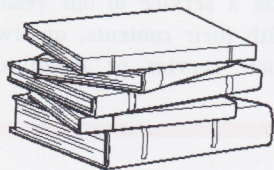

Establishment figures who cannot resist cultivating close associations with types like Kuczinski, a cousin of the Queen Mother being one of them. He hid behind the pen-name of "Turner" to publish a nasty piece of communist propaganda, an attempt at provoking Britain to declare war on Germany well before the problems with Poland.

Saved from internment by the Americans, he worked for the American Strategic Bombing Survey while, at the same time, passing information to the Russians. He had introduced his sister, Ruth Werner, to the atomic scientist traitor, Klaus Fuchs, while she was working for Soviet intelligence under the code-name "Sonya". At the end of the war, the Americans tired of Kuczinski's links with the Soviets, even cutting off his telephone in the American zone of Berlin.

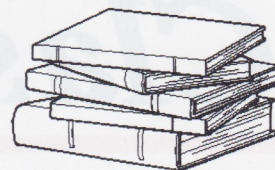

His ideological home was in the East and in 1950 he accepted an invitation from the German traitor, Walter Ulbricht, then leader of the DDR. He served the East German system with sycophantic enthusiasm, playing both the "intellectual" and apologist. In his last days he was to confess, "I was guilty of miserable political stupidity ...".
